

MIESL01

Classic architect-designed modernist lever handle
Designed by Mies van der Rohe, one of the pioneers of modernist architecture, this lever handle shows his objective approach, coupled with his desire to express the spirit of the modern era. This is the handle that he designed for his unbuilt tower in Mansion House Square in London. The detailed designs were unearthed and exhibited at the start of 2018, thanks to the researches of architect and writer Jack Self. Like all izé luxury door hardware, the lever handle is available in the full range of izé materials.
